Court Has Marks Ouster Case Under Advisement

Judges' Decision Due in Few Weeks After Study of Record.

The Third [illegible] court of appeals today [illegible] under advisement the [illegible] in which removal of William E Marks as police chief is sought by Mayor Clarence A Bolin

The court is expected to give its decision in a few weeks

Study of 550 pages of testimony taken in the common pleas court trial of the case and approximately 100 pages of briefs will be made by the three judge court before the case is decided

The court completed hearing of the case in Lima yesterday Three attorneys gave arguments in the hearing They are Grant E Mouser Jr and J W Jacoby representing Mayor Bolin and Howard F Guthery representing Marks

Jacoby's Argument

Mr Jacoby whose argument was given last contended that mayors and not police chiefs are the law enforcement officers of Ohio cities having the same powers within corporate limits that sheriffs have in rural districts

Since the mayors are given authority to appoint police chiefs presumably for the purpose of helping them enforce the law and maintain peace and safety mayors should have authority to remove chiefs he argued

These statements and others were given in answer to a question from the court What are the duties of a chief of police?

Mr Jacoby asserted the Ohio statutes contain only one brief section describing the chief's duties making it his exclusive duty to station patrolmen and assign them to their beats

In commenting on a question raised in the morning session as to whether Marks had knowledge of law violations complained of by Mayor Bolin Mr Jacoby referred to testimony given in the common pleas trial by Marks

Cites Marks Testimony

He argued Marks knew bootlegging was going on in Marion quoting Marks as testifying in common pleas court that he directed the state liquor enforcement officers to the houses of bootlegging suspects told them where some of the suspects hid their liquor and of the layout of the places Mr Jacoby also emphasized that Marks during the two months prior to giving this information to the state officers had made no arrests for liquor law violations

With few exceptions all three attorneys followed closely the written arguments they previously had filed in the case In them attorneys for Marks argued that none of the charges on which removal was based was supported by evidence Counsel for Mayor Bolin on the other hand contended there was an abundance of evidence to support the charges of gross neglect of duty incompetence and failure to enforce the law

The Marks case came before the appellate court on error proceedings filed by Mayor Bolin seeking reversal of a common pleas court order reinstating Marks Marks was removed from office by the mayor last Aug 9 E C Mackar former captain has been police chief since that time

Daniel E Morgan Booms Idaho Senator Before "Republican Crusaders"

MOVE IS UNEXPECTED

Delegates Object To Naming of Presidential Timber at Cleveland Meeting

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND July 9—Daniel E Morgan former city manager of Cleveland in an unofficial and unexpected move put the name of U S Senator William E Borah of Idaho before the Republican Crusaders conference closing here today as a Republican presidential candidate of 1936

Morgan's suggestion brought an immediate objection from Mrs Q W Hershey a delegate from Pittsburgh and his remarks concerning Borah were expunged from the record

Mrs Hershey said delegates came to Cleveland with the understanding there would be no discussion of presidential candidates A majority of approximately 2000 delegates present upheld Mrs Hershey's view

In Senator Borah Morgan said we have a man who stands rock ribbed on the constitution who is uncontrolled and who loves and cherishes the traditions of our country

He would not be controlled by anyone

Most of the delegates at the conference were from Ohio Pennsylvania and Michigan with others from Kentucky Tennessee and West Virginia.

Charles W Carroll of Philadelphia, keynoter of the conference criticized the present leadership of the Republican party as inefficient and inept and urged the delegates to place the responsibility of government management on the shoulder of youth

I do not mean youth of the academic type such as we have in Washington today he said

MAN SHOT IN GALION IS GROWING WEAKER

Police Continue To Probe Identity of Victim of Gun Battle With Officer

Special to The Star

GALION O July 9—As the condition of a man shot by Patrolman Charles Ferrall in a fight in a police car Sunday night grew weaker police continued their efforts today to definitely establish his identity

In answer to a police radio inquiry made by Police Chief Frank Cook of Galion Lancaster Pa, authorities reported the man was known there as William Reichard and that his estranged wife Ellen lived here They had not lived together for five years Lancaster officers said They added a brother and sister of Reichard formerly lived in Lancaster

Reichard Sunday told police his name was William S [illegible]erson and later changed it to William Reed Monda he said his name was William Staggers and that he had a wife Ellen Reichard in Lancaster

No trace of Reichard's companion who escaped during the shooting fray in which Reichard was wounded possibly fatally and Patrolman Ferrall suffered a hand wound has been found Reichard and his companion attempted to gain possession of a police car as Patrolman Ferrall was taking them to police station for questioning The fight took place in a moving automobile which crashed into a telephone pole

CITY SCHOOLS GIVEN $172,610 FOR 6 MONTHS

Appropriation for Last Half of Year Made by Board of Education

SITUATION IS IMPROVING

Better Tax Collection Helps on Operating Costs and Retirement of Bonds

The city board of education last night appropriated $172 610 to operate the city schools the last half of 1935 This was the amount set up in a revised form by School Superintendent C A Hudson The board also appropriated $6 593 75 to pay bonds and interest which will mature in the next six months

The board also hired nine additional teachers and a librarian voted to adopt revised text books in some courses set the [illegible] length of the school term for the school year of 1935-1936 set the opening date of school and discussed the purchase of materials for the erection of the Harding High school athletic stadium

Mr Hudson presented the board with a detailed account of the departments for which the appropriations will be used and outlined each item He also discussed income and expenditures the first half of this year

Division of Funds

Of the $172 610 appropriation $119 290 is to be allocated to the personal service fund for payment of salaries and wages The personal service fund will be divided as follows $5 315 for salaries in the school administration department $99 855 for teachers and principals $475 for truant officer and other coordinate agencies $12 500 for operation of the school plant $300 for employes engaged in maintenance of the buildings and upkeep of the grounds and $575 for special services including the hiring of lecturers

The remainder of the appropriation is to be allocated to the following agencies school supplies $27 085 materials for maintenance of buildings equipment and mechanical plants $2 800 equipment replacements $1 425 contract and open order service for repairs utility bills and similar items $9 405 fixed charges and contributions including interest on tax notes insurance teachers retirement fund and similar items $13 475 capital outlay for improvement of sites and equipment for old schools $1 350

In discussing the expenses of the first half of 1935 Mr Hudson pointed out that the appropriation of $170 370 little more than covered the actual expenditure, which was $165 075 [illegible] The estimated appropriation for the last half has been

Workers Find Torture Rooms of Russian Czar

Underground "Henchmen's Court" of Ivan the Terrible Uncovered by Excavators

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW July 9 — Moscow's subway excavators announced today they had discovered the underground chamber where Ivan the Terrible was said to have tortured his victims nearly four centuries ago

Definite proof was declared to have been obtained that a chamber and passages found beneath the center of the city near the spot where the Lenin library is under construction was Ivan's dreaded henchmen court

There according to the stories told in Russia Ivan had his victims torn to pieces by bears and sometimes buried alive

Found Last Winter

The subway diggers came across it last winter upon investigating white sand discovered under a [illegible] drilling Geologists said the sand had been brought from some distant place Further digging led the workmen to the remains of a court and passages which once

LIMIT TAX TO INCOMES, GIFTS

House Ways and Means Committee Votes Limitations for New Bill

INHERITANCE INCLUDED

Tax on Individual and Corporate Revenue Is Decided Upon

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON July 9 Unanimous decision to limit the tax bill to levies only to individual and corporate incomes inheritances and gifts was reached today by the house ways and means committee

Proposals for broadening President Roosevelt's tax program to include sales taxes other nuisance levies as well as other revenue problems were discussed before the decision was reached to confine the legislation to the points outlined originally by the President

After a brief committee session today Chairman Doughton (D NC) told newspapermen

We agreed unanimously to limit the hearings to the proposals outlined in the President's message Everybody knows we cannot go over the whole tax field without indefinitely prolonging the hearings and the session of congress

Members interpreted the decision to limit hearings as a tacit agreement to limit the finally approved bill

President Roosevelt's new tax program encountered a protest from the leadership of the American railroad industry

Robert V Fletcher general counsel for the Association of Railway Executives contended the graduated taxes the President wants to apply to corporate income would penalize bigness in the railroad field after congress had encouraged mergers

Fletcher prepared a formal argument for submission to the house ways and means committee which yesterday heard estimates that 25 alternative schedules based on a four fold tax plan advocated by the President would raise anywhere from $118 000 000 to $901 000 000 a year

Secretary Morgenthau who had received from committeemen a list of the different schedules with a request to say how much revenue each would raise outlined the estimates

Fletcher the railroad spokesman argued against applying to the rail lines the suggested new graduated taxes which would range from 10 to 17½ per cent depending on size of income The present rate is a flat 13¾ per cent

HUEY FIRES HOTTER BLAST THAN EVER AT ROOSEVELT

'Kingfish' Celebrates Gaining New Power by Calling President "Liar and Faker" in Radio Talk

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS July 9 — A fresh blast against the New Deal administration by Senator Huey P Long was centered today on his accusation that President Roosevelt is a liar and a faker

Riding the crest of another surge of legislation which gives him unprecedented control over the state of Louisiana Long assailed the President last night with a personal denunciation unmatched in his previous attacks on the administration

His accusation came during a radio speech in which he touched on the recently enacted old age pension bill

"Liar and Faker"

Let me tell you about this Roosevelt [illegible] plan [illegible] there are 40,000 persons in Louisiana who would qualify and Louisiana would get about $1 000 000 which would mean that the state's old age pensioners would get about $2 60 a year or a little less than one cent a day

That's what Franklin Delano Roosevelt sends you down here

Franklin D Roosevelt is a liar and a faker Now let them indict me for that and I'll prove him a liar

Interspersed with the attack was another tirade against Long's political enemies and a review of the work of the recent legislative session at which the general assembly broadened the area of control over the state to an almost unlimited degree

Long's blast against the chief executive came during a discussion of old age pensions and was followed by sharp fire at Roosevelt on his tax and relief programs

HOSPITAL PLAN RECOMMENDED

Council Committee Favors Marion Man for Position as Business Head

SAY EXPERT NOT NEEDED

Would Select Some One Other Than Safety Director for Position

The hospital committee of city council at a meeting last night in the office of City Solicitor Theodore [illegible] decided to suggest to Safety Director W S Sams that a local man qualified to handle business matters and with experience in handling employes be employed as business manager or financial director for Marion City hospital

Regarding suggestions of the hospital advisory committee and Women's Hospital board that a man with special training in hospital management be sought for the position the committee expressed doubt that such a person could be employed for the salary councilmen [illegible] feel [illegible] be paid for a manager

Also committee members suggested that there would be little demand on the business manager for technical knowledge to handle the position as it is visualized by the committee

Second In Authority

The committee's suggestions call for a manager who would be second to the safety director in authority over the institution having virtually complete control over the hospital However under the plan contemplated by the committee the safety director will be asked to prepare a set of rules and regulations for the hospital to be submitted to council for approval, and under these the supervisor of nurses and other hospital department heads would have virtually complete control over their respective departments although their rank in authority would be under the business manager

As sketched last night by the committee the mayor holds final authority over the institution by virtue of his selection of a safety director who by law is given complete control over hospital affairs although a majority of his important moves affecting the hospital must be approved by council

The committee indicated that approximately $150 a month is all it feels council would be justified in offering for a hospital manager at this time although it was suggested that a successful manager might be given a larger salary later if he shows ability to materially reduce annual operating deficits of $8000 a year at the institution with a lowering [illegible] of deficits

Another suggestion the committee said it will make is that someone else besides the safety director be selected for the job of hospital manager It previously had been considered by some officials that W S Sams safety director might continue his present position and take over the job of hospital manager as well

The committee adjourned planning to make a study of hospital rules and regulations in other cities preparing a suggested list of duties and qualifications of a

ITALY'S WITHDRAWAL FROM LEAGUE SEEN

Italian Circles Predict Break if Special Session Is Called

GENEVA July 9 Italian circles predicted today that Italy would [illegible] from the League of Nations if a special session [illegible] that body were called on the Italo-Ethiopian conflict but a special session appears likely because of the break down in the conciliation commission proceedings

A resolution adopted by the League council May 25 provided a special session of the council should be called July 25 if the Italo-Ethiopian arbitrators failed to reach an agreement and failed to appoint a fifth arbitrator to act as umpire

It also provided for a council session August 25 at all events if the dispute had not been settled by that time Today the Italo-Ethiopian conciliation commission meeting at Scheveningen Netherlands decided to suspend its work indefinitely

It was not immediately clear whether the commission in deciding to adjourn indefinitely intended to [illegible] the problem of a fifth arbitrator or of naming a fifth member If this should prove to be the case the council [illegible] to decide whether it should meet before August 25 to deal with the dispute

"Poison Potion" Slayer Wins in Freedom Fight

Dr Sarah Ruth Dean Pardoned, Will Resume Medical Practice

By The Associated Press

JACKSON Miss July 9 Free after a two-year fight which won her a pardon from Gov Conner Dr Sarah Ruth Dean sentenced to life imprisonment for the poison highball slaying of Dr John Preston Kennedy looked forward today to resuming practice as a child specialist

The governor's action was relayed yesterday to the woman physician ill in bed as the time drew near for her return to prison A suspension of sentence granted by Gov Conner a month ago would have expired last night The governor said he had the benefit of information not available to the courts either in the original trial or on appeal to the state supreme court

Dr Dean on receiving the news smiled feebly and said The governor has done justice in this act of mercy I am innocent of the charge that was brought against me

Her pardon had been fought by Dr Kennedy's divorced wife Mrs Bessie Barry Kennedy and his brothers Drs Henry and Barney Kennedy The state charged Dr Dean administered the poison to Dr Kennedy at a midnight tryst which was to have marked the end of an affair between them and was to have been followed by Dr Kennedy's remarriage to his divorced wife

Employes' Savings Plan Considered Before Judge in Federal Court.

Another of a series of hearings being held in New York on proposed reorganization of the Susquehanna Silk Mills operating a branch plant in Marion was held yesterday without any definite action being taken and submission of further testimony was put over to Oct 17 The Associated Press reported

At yesterday's hearing held before Judge Henry W Goddard in United States district court in New York R H More general superintendent of the company's Sunbury Pa mill described employes' money involved in the reorganization plan

He told of the accumulation of employe savings in company vaults adding that employes had implicit faith in the Susquehanna and now many of them were destitute

Employes accounts it was explained were tied up when the company was placed in receivership in July of 1932 and remained impounded during the trusteeship in which the company is now operating A savings plan similar to those in effect in several of the company's other mills was operated in the Marion mill

More was questioned by Harry Knight the company's general counsel and Lemuel Skidmore counsel for the creditors

The reorganization plan was predicated on the likelihood that the company would do not more than $10 000 000 business annually for a number of years to come

37 Dead, 7 Missing in New York Flood

By The Associated Press

ALBANY N Y July 9 Receding flood waters left upstate New York today with 37 dead eight missing and property damage approximating $10 000 000

More than 2000 were temporarily homeless in a score of villages and cities

The American Red Cross at Washington rushed relief workers into the area and Governor Herbert H Lehman coordinated state agencies including the national guard to cope with the situation

The governor summoned heads of six state departments to the executive chamber to obtain reports and map a program of relief

Rush Emergency Crews

Lack of water still remained a serious problem to some communities and Dr Thomas H Parran Jr state health commissioner issued a warning to boil all water

Emergency crews were rushed to washout scenes to repair railroad beds giving rise to hope resumption of train service running through the southern tier would be effected by nightfall

A dozen towns and cities near the Pennsylvania border within a 50-mile radius of Binghamton appeared to be the worst sufferers Also seriously affected was the territory 60 miles or more northwestward in the heart of the famous Finger Lakes region around Watkins Glen

The story was the same throughout the flood region—ruined homes wrecked communication lines and utilities damaged highways and bridges washed out railroad tracks and unestimated crop and live stock losses

At Hornell where water light and communications systems were wrecked by the rolling flood water, 1000 refugees were being cared for in private homes and some victims spent the night sleeping in automobiles

City officials considered establishing public stations for inoculation against disease

May Close Park

Several hundred were temporarily homeless at Watkins Glen and city and county buildings were damaged by mud and water Dozens of homes were wrecked and the internationally known park there was so severely damaged it may have to be closed

The Chenango river still lapped at buildings in the lower section of Binghamton where nearly 500 persons were driven from their homes

Six houses were carried away and the business district flooded in Trumansburg and vicinity where at least five persons including three children lost their lives

Governor Lehman obtained the transfer of 2 000 [illegible] workers and 1000 CCC men to the flood area The conservation department and the department of public works rushed men to the scene and state troops were ordered into Watkins Glen

The American Red Cross in Washington sent three disaster relief workers to Hornell and Bath and announced Washington headquarters would be stripped of office workers if they were needed

COUNTY OFFICIALS CONSIDER PROBLEMS

Commissioners Association Discusses Agriculture Pension And Relief

Discussion of problems common to county commissioners featured a meeting of commissioners from nine counties at a meeting last night in Hotel Marion of the Central Northwestern Ohio Commissioners association

County contributions to agricultural societies to the operation of old age pension offices and handling of the [illegible] relief cases were discussed The discussions were for the purpose of exchanging ideas and not with the thought of taking any group action members pointed out

It was discussed that among the 10 counties in the association contributions to agricultural societies ranged from $6,000 a year in Wyandot county to the minimum of $2500 required by law followed by a majority of the other counties in the district including Marion The latter figure represents the state $800 [illegible] tax paid by the county and $500 for club work

None of the counties except Delaware is sharing the cost of administering the old age pension law It was brought out Delaware county commissioners reported they are furnishing rooms equipment and $60 a month for a clerk

The meeting was in charge of Dr T [illegible] Cowgill of Delaware county president of the association The next meeting will be held at Russell Point on Indian lake on the second Monday of September

Counties represented were Marion Delaware Crawford Logan Hardin Morrow Seneca Union and Wyandot

POLICE SEEK TRACE OF MISSING CO-ED

Ann Sibley Antioch Student Dissatisfied with School Brother Says

By The Associated Press

XENIA O July [illegible] Ann Sibley [illegible] Antioch [illegible] record [illegible] by her [illegible]

He [illegible] Xenia and Springfield [illegible] returned to Chicago last night. He said he [illegible] no fear for the girl's safety and expressed belief she had obtained work.

Sibley said his sister sent their parents a telegram after she missed the bus and said she would attempt to seek employment in Springfield.

Police checked rooming houses, hotels, tourist camps and bus stations here and at Springfield but were unable to find a clue to her whereabouts.

TORTURE ROOMS OF RUSSIAN CZAR FOUND

connected it with the czar's palace.

Ivan is popularly supposed to have ordered the construction of the underground passages in 1565 so that he could go to court secretly and watch his henchmen torture the victims. The German adventurer Heinrich Staden known as the underling of Ivan wrote memoirs in which it was said that the courtyard was damp and that Ivan consequently had ordered it covered with sand.

One of the passages uncovered by the subway workers once emerged at a point where a dense forest filled with wild animals existed. The workers also found a mass of underground relics.

One can be lost in the fantastic subterranean city existing under Moscow, the press said in describing the finds.

Dungeons as well as weapons, fortifications and cemeteries have been excavated. One wide passage with storerooms paved with stone is believed to have been the ancient Moscovites hiding place from invaders. The passage was even equipped with water pipes from which the water escaped with such force that the subway workers had difficulty in stemming the flow. Fragments of Polish and Russian weapons and Tartar pipes and axes were found in the store rooms.

Remains Found

Several skeletons with fragments of swords and ornamented pitchers were found in the well near the henchmen's court.

According to one of the many legends of underground Moscow the remains of fortifications built by the noblemen Kuchka in 1170 still exist. Moscow is supposed to have been the center of almost constant warfare at that time.

The Muscovites fleeing from Napoleon who captured the city are said to have hidden their belongings in underground trenches and the famous library of Ivan the Terrible is believed by many to be secreted somewhere under the city.

CLASH MARKS PROBE OF UTILITY LOBBY

pected to reach a vote in the senate soon.

The senate came today to the question whether to concur in the bill as it passed the house or insist upon the administration's compulsory abolition plan already approved by the senate.

There was some maneuvering on that point late yesterday. Senator Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, a leader of the administration fight, moved that the senate insist upon its bill and request a conference with the house. This motion however was quickly superseded by one by Senator Dieterich, Democrat of Illinois, that the senate immediately concur in the house bill. Dieterich's motion, which the chair ruled has precedence, was thus before the senate for debate today.

OHIOAN JAILED FOR WORKING ON SUNDAY

Neighbor Complains When He Greases Truck

By The Associated Press

BOWLING GREEN O July 9—J W Vangunten 37 of nearby Perrysburg greased his truck on Sunday and went to jail.

He is charged with violating a state law enacted in 1553 prohibiting common labor on the Sabbath. He will be given a hearing July 1? before Mayor John W Lyons of Perrysburg.

The complaint was made by Mrs Margaret Castle, a neighbor.

Vangunten, who was released from jail last night under $50 bond, admitted he greased his truck, Sheriff Arnold Esch said, but insisted it was necessary.

Sheriff Esch said he understood Mrs Castle will have to prove the greasing was unnecessary if the truck driver is to be convicted.

[illegible] tra for the first [illegible] gatters [illegible] payment of delinquent [illegible] Tax collections total $51,4?? 24 for debt service. Bonds and interest amounting to $47,413 ?? which matured in March and June. A balance of $11,993 49 is left to apply on the debt service fund the last half of the year.

These figures indicate a very satisfactory position of the finances available for debt service, Mr Hudson said.

The superintendent has estimated receipts the last half of the year will total $191,70? [illegible] including the tax receipts to be used for debt service which are estimated at $60,819.

He pointed out that the appropriation measure for the second six months $172,610 is well within the estimated receipts of $19?,?06 22. Also that the income is sufficiently high to meet the deficit which is indicated for the first half.

Teachers Reemployed

Teachers reemployed are L H Ricker, head of the vocational department, R A Todd and W P Roberts, vocational instructors. [illegible] Jacoby also was reemployed as Harding High school librarian.

New teachers hired last night are Miss Martha Mantz of Pleasant township, Miss Dora Hardy of Marion, Miss Laurel Hanley of Kent O, Miss Iris Robert of Marion, Miss Marian Washburn of Morral, Miss Leah Cline of Orrville O. One and possibly two more teachers will be employed to complete the teaching staff in the city schools, Mr Hudson said.

The board adopted Mr Hudson's suggestions to place recent and more up to date text books in the schools in some courses. The old books as they wear out will be replaced with new ones gradually. Replacements will be made in English in grades three to six inclusive over a two year period. A text called Elementary English in Action will replace the present text by Hodge and Lee which Mr Hudson described as quite inadequate as it has an original copyright date of 1920.

Other book replacements will be a recently published speller and a business law text. Some of the books will be supplied to pupils and buildings without charge while others will be sold to pupils at cost. Free text books will be placed in the schools gradually during the next five years to conform with the free text book law passed at the last session of the state legislature which provides for a gradual introduction of free books into Ohio public schools.

OUTLINES LIBERAL POLICY FOR CODES

Consideration Being Given to Numerous Suggestions, Chairman Says

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON July 9—A policy of liberality in writing voluntary codes for business was enunciated today by Chairman Ewin L Davis of the federal trade commission.

It is with this attitude the chairman said that the commission is studying recent inquiries from about 80 industries as to the commission's agreements which are similar to NRA codes but lack labor provisions.

We want to be as liberal as possible within the law, Davis declared in an interview giving the first official indications of the commission's plans for codification since it was designated by the President last week as the government arbiter for industry succeeding NRA.

The commission's rules will be absolutely uniform, Davis said. They shall be stated broadly enough so as to apply to all industries alike. We are giving closest consideration to many suggestions such as open pricing, sales below costs, uniform discounts, loss leaders and other matters which the commission has not permitted in its codes before.

As to questions whether the commission's policy was more liberal than in former years, Davis said the only policy we have had was to administer the laws entrusted to us fairly. He agreed however that changes in the commission membership might alter methods of administration.

In past years some critics contended the commission's agreements gave business virtually no freedom to cooperate. Recently however the United States Chamber of Commerce urged business to make use of the agency's codes.

TRUAX HITS SNAG IN FREE BRIDGE FIGHT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON July 9—Representative Truax, Democrat of Ohio, who contends that all bridges in the U S should be free, may run into a snag in his efforts to block passage of all toll bridge bills in congress. Representative Brooks, Democrat of Pennsylvania, who is interested in five such bills, disclosed today that the house interstate and foreign commerce committee is prepared to group all bridge projects into an omnibus bill which under rules of the house cannot be blocked by one vote. Truax has stopped all previous bills coming up under the unanimous consent rule.

MISSING BOY, 14, FOUND AT THEATER

Louis [illegible] Robert Robinson of 220 Windsor street, who ran away from home Sunday, was found by police last night following a chase after he emerged from the Marion theater.

Dollars Do Good

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS Cal July 9—Hurrah for Mr Rockefeller, 9? years old, one of the very few men [illegible] how to give money away so that every dollar does good. That's more than our government can do, or more than anybody can do.

All over the world there is a Rockefeller doctor swatting at a mosquito or [illegible] a poisonous fly. [illegible] the whole east coast of Brazil and they have eliminated mosquitoes. However I do wish he would spread some of the Standard Oil (or even Gulf) on some of these home talent mosquitoes.

Western Pennsylvania Hit by Freak Storm

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH Pa July 9—Pittsburgh and western Pennsylvania was recovering today from a series of freakish storms which caused several deaths, washed out roads, railroad beds, leveled crops and flooded buildings.

One storm swept nearby Hayes and Mitchell while adjacent communities enjoyed sunshine. A bolt of lightning shattered a cabin on Ligonier mountain where a dozen bathers had sought refuge, killing Robert Campbell 17 of Laughlintown. Another bolt killed Michael Moore 55 as he sat on his porch home in [illegible] Clearfield county. Mrs George Warnick while sweeping water from the porch of her home in Brookville was knocked unconscious by lightning. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad was the principal sufferer. The roadbed was washed away partially in the Hays Mitchell storm and in Hooversville, Somerset county, delaying traffic in both places.

"Worse Than Useless."

The power issue in congress is scheduled to come to the fore again this week in more concrete form than it had in the holding company bill. The Tennessee Valley authority, spearhead in President Roosevelt's campaign against the electric power industry, will be the subject.

TVA has been handicapped by a number of injunctions restraining it from retailing the power generated by its projects. The injunctions have been granted on the ground that the original act creating TVA does not specifically authorize entrance into the retail power business.

President Roosevelt has demanded that congress amend the act so as to enable the federal government to sell power in competition with private industry. The senate on May 14 complied with the demand and gave to the government, in addition, authority to help municipalities buy their own power systems.

When the senate amendments reached the house, which has become the conservative branch of the new deal congress, they ran into trouble. First they were rejected. Later, they were reported out in a drastically revised form. According to TVA enthusiasts, the house amendments are "worse than useless."

They forbid TVA to sell surplus power and agricultural chemicals below cost of production after July 1, 1937. They deny TVA the right to construct power lines substantially parallel to private power lines. They prohibit use of TVA funds to buy private utility properties for resale to municipalities. They deny the government's request for a $100,000,000 limit instead of a $50,000,000 limit on its bond issuing power. They require TVA expenditures and purchases to be handled through the general accounting office.

The house showed in the handling of the holding company bill that it was not afraid to vote against President Roosevelt on the power issue. A similar demonstration in the matter of the TVA amendments demanded by the administration would remove all doubt as to the contention that Mr. Roosevelt has overbid the hand he is holding against the electric power industry.

Academic Freedom.

When school teachers and college professors talk about academic freedom, they mean the right to teach the truth as they see it. Unfortunately there are many ways of seeing the truth, which is the point on which academic freedom usually comes to grief.

The National Education association voted in convention at Denver last week to uphold the right of school teachers "to present differing points of view on all controversial questions in order to aid students to adjust themselves to their environment and to changing social conditions."

There's a lot of dynamite in that resolution. If the teachers want to take it seriously. Most of them, however, will stay out of danger by following the policy which experience has taught them brings the most results with the least effort.

They will shun controversial questions, teaching only what is universally believed to be true. Experience has convinced most of them there is a higher law than academic freedom, the law of self preservation. It will be noticed, incidentally, that the Denver convention also went on record in favor of teaching that the American government is the best so far designed by man, which illustrates precisely why public school teachers cannot be expected to take academic freedom too seriously. Many of them differ honestly with the text of such a resolution, but few will care to jeopardize their positions as public employes for the sake of what they hold to be the truth.

Cart and Horse.

Charles C. Stillman's statement of the "probability" that cash relief in Ohio will be reduced between 30 and 50 per cent in August indicates that he, as relief administrator, is in a dilemma. In handling the work relief program, which was to substitute jobs for cash relief, the federal government got the cart before the horse. Mr. Stillman and other relief administrators must do their best to get the horse before the cart in time for the big pull of relief funds which will start next November.

The federal government announced a policy without having made plans for making the policy workable. Local relief workers, assisted by non-professional help, now are being asked to lay the plans that were omitted when the Roosevelt administration's policy was established. Apparently the administration assumes that by cutting off a large portion of cash relief at [illegible] the pattern [illegible] of work relief [illegible] relief workers are going to be [illegible] [illegible] getting the cart behind the horse [illegible] of [illegible] relief workers [illegible]

Mr. [illegible] two [illegible] local [illegible] will have to assume more responsibility [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] relief funds are [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] rather [illegible] FERA [illegible] to be reduced from month to month [illegible] very appreciable amounts.

[illegible] the [illegible] Mr. Stillman [illegible] [illegible] to believe he is confident [illegible] relief [illegible] will be [illegible] as long as the supply equals the demand. It is difficult to imagine the Roosevelt administration going to any politically dangerous extreme in its effort to substitute jobs for the dole.

The Issue of Business Control.

President Roosevelt's proposal to enact the Guffey-Snyder coal bill in order to [illegible] the issue of business control by getting a supreme court decision on the legislation's constitutionality, must be considered with full awareness of what would be entailed.

It is a recommendation for passage of legislation whose constitutionality is doubtful. The purpose is to join the issue of the federal government's right to control business which does not fall clearly within the boundaries of interstate commerce, as now defined.

Congress must decide whether or not it should be a party to the strategy. Its decision will be fraught with political as well as economic consequences. If it passes the Guffey-Snyder bill, the supreme court will be next in line for a decision. An unfavorable decision, which is what Mr. Roosevelt seems to expect, would throw the issue of business control into the national election in 1936.

Obviously, there is no way for voters to settle such an issue in a national election. Nevertheless, if Mr. Roosevelt were reelected on a platform calling for amending the Constitution to broaden the federal government's control of business, his victory would be construed as a mandate to press for congressional action. One wonders, incidentally, what southern Democrats would have to say about a platform containing a threat to states' rights, but perhaps that could be arranged.

Thus, having gone to the voters for a decision, the issue would be returned to congress, which would have to decide whether or not to adopt a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment. If such a resolution were adopted, there still would remain the long process of ratification by two-thirds of the states.

These are the possibilities. They must be considered as factors in the determination of the most vital issue affecting the structure of government since that other debate over the balance of governmental power which led to the Civil war. The problem which President Roosevelt's new deal has raised will not be made to disappear by angry evasions nor impatient gestures. It is as real as business itself.

Fame.

Thomas Carlyle observed that "fame is no sure test of merit, but only a probability of such. It is an accident, not a property of man."

Carlyle probably would grin wryly over the method used to determine which Americans are worthy of the New York university shrine known as the Hall of Fame. Truly, fame is "an accident, not a property of man."

Fifty-three Americans have been placed in nomination for an election to be held next fall. The committee on nominations gave only six candidates a majority vote. The rest were given from one to 10 of the committee's 21 votes. Twenty-three candidates, carried over from last year, because in the final voting they were named on 20 or more ballots, also are eligible for election.

Among the 76 names thus approved by the committee on nominations are many unknowns. It is more surprising to discover Thomas Paine, Samuel Adams and John Jay, who haven't been able to make the grade yet, despite the fact this year's election will be the eighth of its kind.

Grover Cleveland, William Penn, Henry George, Cyrus H. McCormick, Henry D. Thoreau and Simon Newcomb were the fortunate ones to get a majority of the nominating committee's votes which, by the way, are not binding but merely suggestive. They stand at the threshold of the Hall of Fame. Should they be voted in or voted out? It must be a hard decision for the serious men and women who have delegated themselves the power of regulating the "probability" of fame.

NEW YORK, July 9.—There was a quiet [illegible] along the Rialto for the [illegible] of Billie Burke. Not only [illegible] the greatest [illegible] her husband, Flo Ziegfeld, [illegible] for the spectacle of Broadway they never see again.

It was Miss Burke's first visit since [illegible]. Although she loved the metropolis [illegible] to a world that [illegible]. As [illegible] of [illegible] estate in [illegible] Tarrytown section she lived [illegible] spenders of any star.

Ziegfeld was an enormous money maker and a [illegible] spender. Once six Rolls [illegible] in their garage, [illegible] for their daughter Patricia [illegible] a baby elephant. He suffered the fate of [illegible] great impresarios of a day—Frohman, Erlanger, etc.—financial [illegible].

[illegible] Miss Burke reestablished herself [illegible] where she had been a bright particular star. Her talents are [illegible] demand. The years have dealt [illegible], and her daughter has grown into a [illegible] lady with a flair for the technical side of the stage.

Study in restraint: Faith Baldwin is likely the only living white woman who did not see the [illegible] come in and it passed the foot of the street where she lived, right opposite Quarantine.

Always something different along New York streets. The other twilight, for instance, there appeared on the lower avenue a Carol McComas looking Scottish lady in plaid skirt and tam skirling a highland fling on a bagpipe. She passed the outdoor diners without stopping. Stood on a corner curb a moment, hailed a taxi and rode away.

Lenox avenue genuflects to Harlem heroes and heroines the same as Broadway. Wherever they go they are surrounded by the fawners. Like Broadway, too, this place and that has its brief hour and fades. It's not the opulent Harlem it was when downtown slummers wound up a night with ham and eggs and a cool gin fizz in the Cotton Club, while Cab Calloway hi-de-ho'd and Snake Hips slithered into another dawn. There's still a feeble current of night life but the big tide has ebbed, leaving the queer driftage along the shore. The low down [illegible] of Gladys that would shame a seraglio [illegible] reefer, cootchers and such.

Adelaide Hall, the saddle-colored chanteuse continues top warbler and the flashy Nicholas brothers the speediest of the hoofers. Harlem has a wandering columnist, too, who annotates the frothier furore for his weekly. A neat columnar name he has also: Ted Yates. The social leader of Strivers Row is Mrs. W. H. Austin and the fashion plate lady is Blanch Dunn. There is a Bohemian set in Harlem which gathers at a cafe called "The Temple of the Golden Wall." The after-theater rendezvous is the Alhambra Grill. Duke Ellington is liked, the most popular of the orchestra leaders and Joe Louis, the fighter, the reigning idol. Father Devine, head of a healing temple is most discussed figure in the Black Belt with his fleet of Rolls and chanting ebony "angels" in robes of white. Ethel Waters is by far the wealthiest of the entertainers since the passing of Florence Mills. Ethel is reputed to have salted $100,000 in government bonds. No one on Broadway stands out as "the best dressed man" more than the glossy Eddie Manchester with his salmon pin shirts and robin egg blue ties. And, of course, there is the greatest hero of all, the derby-cocked strutting Bill Robinson, the incomparable "Bojangles" with his four cars of expensive make.

The jargon of Harlem, however, is far more picturesque, descriptive and original than Broadway's patois. Broadway picks up phrases of the underworld and fits them to a somewhat politer world. Harlem's slang comes generally from the levee or cotton field. Among the latest: Roach bender—a smoker of Marijuana, trucking—walking; gum beater one who is always talking, signifying to talk about, and squjims—cheap gin. And when a lady loves a man he's "choice."

I've often wondered what those lonely looking private guards loitering near the Rockefeller and Morgan mansions would do if a stranger acted furtive. I tried to seem suspicious near the Morgan place last evening. Hopping behind trees and peering around corners. Evidently he's on to that gag for walking slowly by he yawned: "Having fun?"—(Copyright, 1935, McNaught Syndicate.)

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, July 9, 1925

Defense attorneys for John Thomas Scopes, Dayton, Tenn., teacher who was the central figure of the famous evolution trial, announced their plan of procedure had been completed. It was indicated the case would be fought entirely on constitutional grounds.

Announcement was made that Mrs. Clara V. Koogler and Mrs. Marion Koogler Phillips would present the First Presbyterian church with a new pipe organ to cost approximately $30,000.

Workmen refinishing desks at the Central Junior High school building found the names of five men, members of the graduating class of 1902 which had been cut into desks while they were students in the old building. The former students were B. F. Blake, Marion florist; Harry Hedges, who had become a building contractor in Houston, Tex.; Frank Brown, operator of a large ranch in Oregon; Sidney Katz, noted chemical engineer of Pittsburgh, and Frank M. Knapp, head of a Marion insurance agency.

The Marion Central Labor union appointed B. K. Ruppart, E. H. Shirk, C. A. Bolls, Nelson Jones and Herbert Harmon as a committee to arrange for a Labor day celebration.

Mrs. C. B. Shetterly was installed as president of the Home Missionary society of Epworth M. E. church and Miss Mary Rexroth as president of the Aid society at a joint meeting of the two organizations.

Miss Geneva McMurray and Clarence Fail, both of Marion, were united in marriage at Traverse City, Mich., while on a trip with Miss McMurray's brother-in-law and sister Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Weaver of Barberton, O.

Behind The News In Washington And Wall Street

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 9.—What State Secretary Hull would like to find out is who wrote that note for Haile Selassie.

If the emperor did it himself, he is a smarter Ethiopian than anyone thought and worthy of haunting any international woodpile.

Apparently Mr. Hull was stunned at first by the embarrassing appeal to us to enforce our Kellogg peace pact. At least he stalled for time by asking the American charge at Addis Ababa for "a full report."

Impatient and annoyed, he strummed his desk and searched the ceiling of his office for an answer. Eventually he found one before the full report came from Addis Ababa. He dashed it off, took it with him to the Friday cabinet meeting, and President Roosevelt signed it immediately.

There is nothing in the story that Mr. Hull was unable to think of any answer at all and that Mr. Roosevelt wrote the response.

Tsch-Tsch!

The response was that President Roosevelt was gratified that the League of Nations was trying to settle the dispute; that the pact of Paris was important, too; and (with further evasive ponderosity) that we were "loath to believe" Italy and Ethiopia would fight about such things.

How much Mr. Hull believed his own words is evidenced by the fact that he immediately slipped the word to his legation at Addis Ababa to get all Americans out of Ethiopia before the war started.

Mr. Hull may have found better answers on his ceiling in the past, but at least this one let everyone know he is not going to get mixed up in the Ethiopian mess, even if he never finds a particularly good reason why.

Renovation

A reorganization of housing agencies is being planned by Mr. Roosevelt to take effect right after congress adjourns. The big shot in the new scheme will probably be John H. Fahey, chairman of the Home Owners Loan Corp.

The crowd at the Federal Housing Administration will be renovated and remodeled. Control probably will rest in a co-ordinating committee headed by Mr. Fahey. Functions will be more clearly defined to eliminate overlapping and current confusion.

President Roosevelt is bent on stimulating this phase of the New Deal. Fahey rates the job because his HOLC is the best run of the housing groups. He is a former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and a New England insurance man.

Gall

The AAA dealers are preparing for a shock. They expect it from the Massachusetts circuit court of appeals in the Hoosac Mills case involving the processing tax.

This is the first case to reach an appellate court. The government won in the lower court, but the three appeal judges have delayed a decision since April 23, when arguments were closed. This delay, coupled with some other aspects of the case, has led government attorneys to mope among themselves about the prospects. They also fear that this will be the first processing case to reach the supreme court. It may assume the importance of the Schecter case.

Galling also is the fact that the Hoosac Mills is none other than William M. Butler, former Republican chairman, friend of Coolidge. He is the receiver for the company.

News Flow

You never hear much any more about the Washington press corps being seduced by the government press agents or about the influence wrought by Mr. Roosevelt's sociable side. On the contrary there are vague murmurings among newsmen that the reason is [illegible] turned against President R[illegible] [illegible] that there [illegible] is no more [illegible] for the second amendment than there ever was for the first. Both [illegible] [illegible] per cent of truth.

The fact is a few of newsmen has set [illegible] the President. News men did not make the supreme court decision on NRA, the house insurrection on the utility bill or the reaction to the tax plan. On a broad general average, they merely are reflecting a turn of events. Some are hostile, some are not. There has been little change.

Skeleton

Let it be recorded for the record that the man who put his foot down on new expansive NRA legislation was Attorney General Homer Cummings.

It was he who prevailed over the combined proposals of NRA-er O'Neill and four federal trade commissioners at an unrecorded White House conference about two weeks ago. They wanted joint action on new codes containing labor as well as fair trade practice provisions. Also they had ideas about further strengthening legislation at this session.

Mr. Cummings was "amazed" at their audacity. He is supposed to have told the President it meant venturing into a shadow land of legality. Mr. Roosevelt agreed.

Star Making

As for the press agents, some few of them have taken advantage of the cessation of attack, to swerve their activities. Some (not a majority, perhaps) have forgotten the fact they are public officials and have become personal press agents for whatever boss happens to be over them. They have begun functioning somewhat like the Hollywood press agents trying to publicize movie stars.

In many cases this is not the fault of the press agent, but of the bosses, who want to see their names in print every day. The result is not helpful either to the new deal or to newsmen.

Sleuthing

Mr. Ickes' PWA sleuths never had a more unusual job than the one given them a few days ago.

They were instructed to find a valuable fountain pen lost by an Ickes' assistant in the public works administration. Two detectives spent two days prowling in search of the pen without results.

No one thought of trying an advertisement in the want ad section of the local newspapers.

BY JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, July 9—Well-posted sources say the real conflict between the White House and Sen. Glass on the banking bill is a matter of fundamentals that hasn't been mentioned publicly. Mr. Roosevelt's attitude is that New York has had the concentrated money power and he wants this unhealthy condition corrected by transferring it to Washington. Mr. Glass agrees that New York should not have it but believes that moving it to the capital would only make matters worse. His objective is to distribute it nationally.

This was the purpose of the original federal reserve act—of which the Virginia senator was a fond parent. In practice it got twisted out of this pattern because Benjamin Strong—former governor of New York reserve bank—was able to seize and hold powers he was never intended to have, thus giving New York a big jump on the rest of the country.

Glass is said to feel that Title II of the present bill as he has redrafted it goes a long way toward achievement of a truly national banking system—adding to and strengthening the federal reserve act so it can accomplish what he first planned for it. Insiders predict it will be a worthy monument (its passage is assured with no important changes) to his grasp of banking problems and his extraordinary courage and persistence in the face of the physical handicaps of old age.

Peak

The committee for the nation and other advocates of a federal monetary authority are not disgusted because the banking bill [illegible] to go through without the Goldsborough amendment they wanted which would have made it mandatory on the federal reserve board to maintain a stable price level.

On the contrary, they have fresh hopes. Their reason is that the banking bill in the largest version is [illegible] that and only monetary matters entirely. Therefore why not start a new drive for monetary legislation—perhaps including a new federal authority—to round out the program? Some of the more ardent enthusiasts sincerely believe there's still a chance to put through such a law at this session and will do their darnedest to stir up congress about it.

Dispassionate observers call that the peak of optimism. They can't see the President taking such a proposal under his wing at this late date. He has shown no interest in it up to now. Nor can they figure congress getting excited about a debatable new measure of this sort with Washington heat coming on—especially after the campaign for the Goldsborough amendment fizzled so badly.

Surprise

Agricultural groups retain a lively concern about monetary affairs. A meeting will be held by the national cooperative council in Ithaca, N. Y.—beginning July 18—chiefly to discuss monetary policy and what to do about it.

The principal speakers will be Professors George Warren, James Harvey Rogers and Oliver M. W. Sprague. Warren—in case you've forgotten—sponsored the plan for raising the price level by jacking up the price of gold which was tried out in the fall of '33. Rogers was a monetary adviser to the administration at about the same time. While his views didn't exactly coincide with Warren's he shared the latter's faith in monetary maneuvers as the most effective cure for the depression. Both are in sympathy with the farm objective of higher prices and you would expect to find them present on such an occasion.

But Sprague is a real surprise. Perhaps you will recall that he was one of the first conservative administration advisers to jump the traces—to the accompaniment of right-wing cheers. He has always been thoroughly orthodox on monetary questions. Even the organizers of the meeting are not certain whether he comes as a convert or a missionary to the heathen—but it's probably the former. The gathering will be important as an attempt to organize national agricultural sentiment for more positive political action along monetary lines.

Satisfied

Insiders are betting that the house-senate conference on the holding company bill will be more peaceable than most people expect. Sen. Wheeler and others will roar about the need for the death sentence—but it's predicted the conference will report back a measure differing very slightly from the mild house version—and that both houses will accept it with hardly a murmur.

That will put it up to the President to sign or veto a bill without the drastic features he has fought so hard for. No informed New Yorker seriously believes he will veto it despite much talk to that effect.

He's credited with cagy tactics in his continued insistence that the house bill must be stiffened. Wise sources figure he's better satisfied than he can afford to let on.

Easier

One thing NRA did not accomplish was to cure business men of their fear of the 40-hour week. This has worked pretty well on the whole and most important industries will continue it without argument even though they can now revert without penalty—except possible strikes. The Federation of Labor keeps on hammering for 30 hours but is privately gratified that 40 is holding up as a stepping stone. Now that business in general has absorbed one cut in hours without pain the next reduction may come easier.

Fun

A curious and almost unnoticed amendment to the banking bill provides that no officer, director or employe of a federal reserve member bank shall serve in a similar capacity for "more than one" other bank. If this gets by, the same man could be president of two great competing institutions. Wall Street thinks it would be fun if something of the sort happened.

TODAY
Arthur Brisbane's News Review

Women, before and since [illegible], have taken heart [illegible] more seriously than men. Margaret Jordan, an Irish girl, [illegible] fell in love with a Mount [illegible] N. Y. policeman because he [illegible] from her home town. He was married, with eight children, and after he had seen the girl [illegible] years he decided that he [illegible] form and see her no more. [illegible] told her about this [illegible] tion as he sat in his [illegible] and did not notice that she [illegible] his service revolver from [illegible] pocket of the car.

He learned what had happened next day when told that [illegible] had killed herself with [illegible] ver. It was embarrassing [illegible] married policeman with eight [illegible] dren.

Prayer Is Right

In American churches Sunday, August 18 will be a day of prayer for peace in Africa and safety [illegible] Little Ethiopia, when [illegible] war with powerful Italy.

That is the right United States interference in foreign affairs. The prayers will reach their destination, and the Supreme Being [illegible] whom they are addressed [illegible] what is best, and has power [illegible] range matters in Ethiopia as [illegible] chooses.

To pray "Lord, possessor of omniscience and omnipotence, we leave all in Your hands," is right.

To send a million young American men and several thousand [illegible] American dollars, to [illegible] die in not Africa would be [illegible]

If a Man Wants To Die

When a man wants to die it is some times difficult. Adam Richetti, companion of "Pretty Boy" Floyd the late gunman, is awaiting execution in Kansas City. Unwilling to wait he climbed to the top of his bunk, dived head first, striking his head on the concrete floor. The skull did not break. Then he ran his head, full force against the iron bars of the cell. Again failure. Guards heard and restrained him.

If a man really wants to die, uncontrolled by the "law of self preservation," he does die. In the old slave trade days many Negroes committed suicide, merely by turning their tongues back in their throats.

In Russia, under the czar, a nihilist, afraid that torture might make him betray his comrades decided that he must die. Below the bars of his dark cell a small oil lamp was burning, wick and flame exposed. He pulled his body up to the bars held his abdomen over the flame, and stayed until he burned to death. You might call that determination.

LaGuardia Says Shoot

Mayor LaGuardia of New York, a queer sort of person, believes in action—"deeds, not words," to quote the "forgotten" Theodore Roosevelt. New York has too many criminals, too much racketeering, too many murders. Mayor LaGuardia is not content to say "Dear me how sad!" He is organizing his own New York "G-men," training them to shoot to kill, "in the middle of the stomach, or the forehead. I don't want this investigation to be just a flare. I want something permanent," says he.

Nothing could be more permanent than a bullet in the stomach or forehead.

Quite Agreed

St. Louis reformers say women should not sit on high stools with their feet on a rail and drink at the bar. And, reformers refuse to hear the saloonkeepers say "Amen."

Reformers and saloonkeepers are right. The saloon was bad enough before women moved in to make it worse, hitching up their dresses, climbing high stools and justing their dresses, or not justing them, calling for foolish drinks to show how foolish they could be.

Prize-fights, cock-fights, regular saloon bars should put up the sign: "Ladies not invited." In former days, each child had at least half a chance, because the mother behaved, even if the father did not. That half a chance should be preserved.

Won't Promise

Interesting light is shed on the kind of war into which Mussolini is taking his soldiers, and incidentally, sending his two sons.

The Ethiopian emperor, Selassie wanted Red Cross help. The Red Cross said: "You must promise that your soldiers will not mutilate captives." The conscientious emperor knowing that the wild tribes among his soldiers would mutilate anybody that fought them refused to promise, and may not get any Red Cross money.

[illegible]ADY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

[illegible] pretend [illegible] and in [illegible] he her [illegible] long [illegible] and des[illegible] Central [illegible] free [illegible] one [illegible] There [illegible] her

de[illegible] her [illegible]

I suppose I am [illegible] she said, looking lovingly at her [illegible] B[illegible] you're such a child to me, Glad [illegible] you're so [illegible] If your friend writes or comes to London you must ask him here and let me meet him

She decided not to go on and ask other things she wanted so much to know—how [illegible] had gone whether the young man had kissed Glad whether he really meant anything. But if she could see him she would know

He's bound to turn up, said Glad complacently. I gave him my address. You'll be crazy about him. He's got it all right. And he says I've got lots of sex appeal!

This upset Laurie again and rattled her so much that she spoke as if she herself were very wise and very bitter and knew men inside out

Glad gave a little shriek of laughter

If only the girls could hear you! You ought to do one of your comic turns on the stage Laurie. I can look after myself she added confidently. And it's all very well for you to preach, you've got your husband back again and you're in for a life of thrills

What's he really like Laurie? You haven't told me anything hardly. Is he as wonderful as you thought when you married him? You were a queer girl, never talking about him after you thought he was dead—you were always the same old oyster. By the way, Jimmy taught me to eat oysters—that's if I have enough champagne. Tell me about Rex Moore old girl. Does he know how to make love?

Laurie flushed. There was a curious quality about Gladys' wide grey blue eyes. It seemed sometimes as if they could look right into you but not with love and understanding, rather with some strange fey merciless insight into your secret thoughts and your inmost heart. Laurie had memories of that piercing vision when she had first had to lie to her sister after Rex Moore's supposed death

It has been rather a difficult time she said stiffly. The words came to her lips unbidden. You see Rex and I have to get to know each other all over again

And I suppose you're in a stew because he's gone off again so soon? put in Gladys with an arch assumption of knowledge that roused Laurie's temper. She had never been so angry with her sister before and burst out with what she immediately felt to be a most imprudent retort

Rex and I are not at all sure that we shall get on well together. Two years is a long time. But he is a wonderful man. We'll leave it at that Glad. I don't want to say any more

You got my message all right last night Mrs Moore? Mark Albery asked Laurie the next afternoon when he sent for her to take some letters. Splendid news isn't it? Moore has done exactly what I knew he would. He has found the men. Did you get it exactly—did you have a map to look it up on?

They had crashed in a thick jungle on the borders of the Belgian Congo hundreds of miles from anywhere. Finding them was just the mixture of genius and common sense that Moore is famous for. He hasn't lost his cunning. You must be very proud of him

The poor men were hurt you said Mr Albery? Laurie asked

Apparently rather badly. But the wireless said they had already got a rescue party on its way. Anyhow they're alive and they wouldn't be but for your husband

Laurie curiously enough did feel a little glow of pride and immediately took herself to task for it

Mr Wilmer Jones must be very wonderful too Mr Albery she said

Of course. He looked at her as she bent over her note book ready for work. Her voice sounded cold to him with a raw edge on it. She was unhappy. Now he was sure of it. Jones is an experienced airman and a good fellow. But there is only one Rex Moore

As he went through his correspondence dictating letters and notes for reference nobody would have thought from his dark impassive face that he was inwardly consumed with a passion for his business like secretary that was growing every day. Least of all Laurie herself

For Mark Albery with his wealth and his intriguing personality met the most beautiful and gifted women of the day and could have had his pick of them. And yet it was Laurie Moore whom he desired with a fierce intensity that was actually threatening to interfere with his life

When he had finished and she stood up with her book in her hand her face caught a shaft of sunlight through the window and those little lines of anxiety and distress showed plainly round her eyes and mouth

Albery went up to her as she was moving towards the door

Forgive me I can't help thinking you are unhappy he said in a low voice

Oh [illegible] She was [illegible] a bit [illegible] scared [illegible] he expressed [illegible] in his eyes [illegible] pretense [illegible] he [illegible] in a [illegible] he dea[illegible]

I expected [illegible] ad [illegible] we'll [illegible] B[illegible] I wish [illegible] so [illegible]

No [illegible] Albery

I ca[illegible]

[illegible] you expected [illegible] pleased [illegible] smo[illegible] he [illegible] wr[illegible]

I—w[illegible] mean [illegible] Rex and me [illegible] another again [illegible] That's a[illegible]

He is kind to you?

Oh yes. She was perplexed and confused [illegible] he evaded the impertinence of his question. She summoned all her self control. Rex Moore has been so emphatic [illegible] the keeping up the farce until he came back

She [illegible] would be wise to him to whom [illegible] might not get on well together as she had done to Glad. That was not in the bargain. It was [illegible] of you to bother about me Mr Albery she added cheerfully but really there's nothing the matter with me at all

Albery took her hand

If ever anything should happen and you were unhappy you must come and tell me he said. I shall always be there to help you to do anything I can for you

She [illegible] at him with glowing eyes of gratitude. And then suddenly she received a violent shock

Albery's voice sounded in her ears thick and trembling

You don't understand—I am unhappy about you. You came too late into my life. Don't you see it is more than I can bear to watch you married to another man. Happy with him as you say. When I love you—when I love you

She was speechless. It was so incredible

His arms went round her grasping her shoulders hard. His eyes burned into hers. His lips murmured incoherent words of passion. He had lost control of himself

Albery takes on a [illegible] of a difficult situation

The Stars Say--

For Wednesday July 10

THE PLANETARY configurations for this day point to a sudden disruption or rather startling upheaval following close upon the heels of a long period of stagnation or congestion in current affairs. This abrupt visitation may call for a long journey with fresh interests and new associations and altogether may have a stabilizing influence on the life

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of sudden and unexpected developments with important change travel and new interests. The may come after a period of stagnation

A child born on this day may be industrious hard working and faithful to the interests of elderly persons who may be disposed to reward substantially such merit.

Madge Is Disturbed as Katie Tells of Noises Coming from Outside of Window

TO my [illegible] and [illegible] Katie [illegible] Jim [illegible] and [illegible] w[illegible]

However excitable my [illegible] maid may be, I have found that there is generally some basis for the apparently fantastic conjectures which she occasionally enters, and I knew I had to [illegible] aside the idea as a mere figment of her imagination. But I [illegible] the weak[illegible] impossible for [illegible] several seconds after her announcement

Indeed I was not [illegible] until Jim with the usual conjugal brutality of the frequently harassed husband said roughly: Sure I'll go down although you're probably talking through your hat again [illegible] get in everybody excited over nothing that I found my voice to say imperatively:

Madge Worried

Stop Jim. You must not stir a step out of doors until you have awakened Mr Graham and the guard. Williams and find out what Mr Graham thinks is best to do

Jim checked himself so suddenly on his way to the door that he almost stumbled over his own feet. [illegible] while he gazed at me with a bewildered air. But the next second he had regained his mental and physical balance and said quietly:

All right I'll call Mr Graham right away

As he went toward the back stairs Katie with a furtive glance [illegible] whom. But [illegible]

We [illegible] Katie I [illegible] ask you about the noises you heard. What were they?

Let I know [illegible] ings she said [illegible] were [illegible] like [illegible] the men [illegible] creeping [illegible] was in house [illegible] she [illegible] mit kittens [illegible] you know vot?

Her eyes were big and round with excitement and I hastened to give her a chance to [illegible]

Tell me I said encouragingly

[illegible] something climbing top [illegible] house

I felt as if a piece of ice were slithering down my spine but [illegible] I only said easily

Probably you heard a squirrel. You know how they chase each other all over the roofs of the verandas. Many a time I've been wakened when I was having a nap in the couch hammock by their running overhead

Katie's eyes held a shrewd knowing look as she answered me

Maybe so maybe so she said but her voice was plainly incredulous. Maybe I dream efery ding but I no tink so

No I am sure you did not dream anything I said reassuringly. You heard the suspicious noises and Mr Graham and the guard will investigate them. [illegible] afraid to go back to the kitchen

Vot, Me? Fraid of anytings in dees [illegible] vorld? Not dees scheecken

She struck herself flamboyantly on the chest with her clenched fist but her accompanying tonsilful grin [illegible] from her lips as a soft hissing sound came from toward the corridor. With one bound she reached me and clutched my arm

Vot dot? she quavered. Oh my Missus Graham vot d[illegible] to [illegible] The [illegible] hanged [illegible] an expression [illegible] Miss [illegible] We was [illegible] Dicky [illegible] answer [illegible] Please [illegible]

I [illegible] and [illegible] get [illegible] said [illegible] which [illegible] even Mary [illegible] hear [illegible] Miss Mary wants. Don't say a word Harry

She choked away [illegible] and was off while I hurried to wake Mary who was standing [illegible] in her hand. She was dressed in a [illegible] dark bathrobe and I saw with surprise that she had tied a [illegible] over her hair [illegible] fashion [illegible] It was [illegible] behind this [illegible] interested her [illegible] to me

1933 was a banner year for the sale of gas refrigerators. 1934 saw increased sales.
1935 tops them all. More women than ever before are turning to this modern method of preserving foods, of freezing ice cubes and desserts. They appreciate the silence of its operation—the absence of any machinery to vibrate and wear out. They like the beauty of its sturdy cabinet. Most appealing of all its features is the low cost of operation—less than three cents a day, using natural gas. That's why The Gas Company through its appliance division, has sold a trainload (67 cars) of Electrolux gas refrigerators since January 1st. You can buy an Electrolux for as little as $119. Use our easy payment plan to enable installation in your home now. Select the model that best suits your needs at The Gas Company

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Gallstone Cure.

HARDLY A DAY passes but that I receive a letter from one of my readers inquiring about gallstones. Usually the letter is from someone who recently has been stricken with an acute attack of gallstones. He may have been advised by his physician to be operated upon and wishing to avoid this, asks if there is not a medicine that will dissolve the stones.

In the vast majority of cases delay of an operation is unwise. The operation for removal of the gall bladder or gallstones is not a serious one. But when the gall bladder ruptures as a result of repeated attacks of trouble the operation is more difficult and the recovery is more stormy and prolonged.

The actual cause of gallstones is not known. Many theories are advanced as to why there is a formation of stones. Some of the authorities believe stones form as a result of some infection of the gall bladder. Others believe the stones are really a deposit of solid material from the bile.

Within recent years our knowledge of vitamins has given rise to the theory that gallstones may occur when the diet is deficient in certain vitamins. This new theory is being investigated.

Regardless of what the cause may be, it is necessary to remove the gallstones when they begin to cause pain or discomfort. Since operation is the only sure cure it is best to resort to this means of relief as soon as possible. Bear in mind that once gallstones form, no medicine will dissolve them.

Of course, not every case of gallstones requires an operation. Often a small stone may persist for years without obstruction to the passage of bile. But if many stones are present and the gall bladder becomes irritated and inflamed, prompt operation is advised.

Persons who are susceptible to gall bladder discomforts and infections should guard against continued irritation. Prolonged inflammation of the gall bladder undoubtedly is the primary cause of gallstones in many cases.

The sufferer should avoid heavy meals, irregular eating habits and abstain from fried and greasy foods. All dietary indiscretions should be corrected.

KENTON ARMY PILOT ASSIGNED TO POST

Thomas J. Barrett, 22, Graduates from Randolph Field.

Thomas J. Barrett, 22, of east of Kenton, a member of the 1935 class of the U. S. army air corps flying school at Kelly field, Texas, has been assigned to a post at the Officer's Training camp, Mitchel field, Long Island, according to word received here.

Enroute to his new post at Mitchel field, Mr. Barrett stopped at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Barrett of east of Kenton, for a brief visit. He was accompanied on the visit by two of his classmates, Cadet Nelson and Cadet Olson.

He graduated from Kenton High school in 1930 and from Ohio State university in 1934. He enlisted in the army training school at Randolph field, Texas, one year ago after having received his second lieutenant's commission in the military training department at Ohio State.

Mr. Barrett was one of the 62 cadets who graduated this year at Kelly field. There were 152 youths who originally joined the air service in June, 1934, when the Kenton man elisted.

REVIVAL SERVICES WILL BE REOPENED

The revival meeting which was closed Sunday night at the First Church of the Nazarene after two weeks of services in which approximately 35 persons went to the altar, will be reopened tonight for another week.

Rev. J. Warren Lowman of Woodstock, Kans., the "cowboy evangelist," who was in charge of the meetings, has arranged to be in Marion another week and to hold meetings each night at 7:30. There will be two services on Sunday.

Tonight Rev. Lowman will give the story of his life, including his conversion in the west.

From Marion Rev. and Mrs. Lowman will go to Columbus to conduct a union tent meeting for the Church of Christ.

JUVENILE READERS CHANGING HABITS

Young People Take Advantage of Vacation Period.

Making use of the vacation period to read something besides school reading and reference work juvenile patrons of the Marion City library borrowed a total of 2,227 volumes at the library during the month of June, the report of Miss Helen Kramer, librarian, shows. Of this number 1,770 were volumes of fiction and 157 classics.

Adult patrons numbered 5,492 for the month bringing the total circulation to 7,719. Adult readers requested 4,968 volumes of fiction and 524 classics.

The vacation time lowered the total number of borrowers in comparison with the number at the close of the preceding month. Borrowers at the beginning of the month numbered 6,565 and at the close the roster showed a borrowing list of 6,495. The total number of books on call at the library is 28,157.

FARMERS ASK $66 FOR SHEEP DAMAGES

Sheep claims totaling $66.50 are contained in a report for the week ended Saturday, filed with the county commissioners by Elmer Ullom, county dog warden. Sherman Clark of Tully township seeks $56 for death of seven ewes; E. L. Trout of Claridon township seeks $6.50 for death of one ewe and injury of another; James Lee of Marion township seeks $4 for death of one lamb. The warden reported he impounded 11 dogs last week.

BOLIN INVITED TO MAYORS' DAY PARTY

Central Ohio Executives To Be Guests of Ball Club.

Mayor C. A. Bolin has received an invitation to attend "Central Ohio Mayors' Day" in Columbus next Saturday.

The annual event is sponsored by the Columbus Red Birds baseball club. Mayors and city managers from over Ohio will be guests of the club at a ball game between Kansas City and Columbus. Other events include a luncheon given by Mayor Henry Worley of Columbus at the new City police station, and an informal party at the Southern hotel.

MARION MAN NAMED AS CONCERT AID

Herman Watren of 277 Orchard street has been named local representative for the fall and winter concert season to be given this year at Capital university in Columbus. The season will open Oct. 15 with Otis Skinner in excerpts from several of his most famous plays. Other attractions will be Dalies Frantz, American pianist, Richard Halliburton, traveler, and a presentation of "The Student Prince" by the university with a number of the original New York leads taking part.

There were 74,518 automobiles manufactured in Canada in the first four months this year, 38 per cent more than in the similar period of 1934.

SENIOR LOOP HOPES TO WIPE OUT STING OF ALL-STAR DEFEAT

Frisch Justifies Starting of Walker Gomez and Harder in Star Roles

By The Associated Press

[illegible] a great [illegible] the [illegible] series.

[illegible] to have the [illegible] they have [illegible] an All Star game [illegible]

On the other hand they have been [illegible] of the American League in the world championship [illegible] the fall [illegible] the New York Giants will [illegible] may right out before the gaze of 69,812 cash customers in [illegible] Cleveland stadium.

Most Decisive

The third straight triumph of the Americans by a 4 to 1 score was easily the most decisive scored since the All Star idea was hatched in 1933 at Chicago. It was especially sweet for the forces of the junior league for the reason they were supposed to be somewhat below par crippled by the loss of several outstanding stars of previous years and generally rated in advance as this year's underdogs. It was a bitter pill for the Nationals who found themselves outpitched outplayed and outsmarted under circumstances that left plenty of room for the second guessers to go into action.

Most of the argument of the wake of the game today centered about Manager Frank Frisch's judgment in starting his own southpaw Bill Walker instead of Hal Schumacher sinker ball ace of the New York Giants. Walker was rapped for three runs including a booming homer by Jimmie Foxx in the first inning so that the ball game was all over but the shouting by the time Schumacher went in to twirl a four inning trick.

Prince Hal himself yielded the fourth run but he fanned five and gave an individual performance equally as brilliant as that of either Lefty Gomez or Mel Harder who combined to pitch the Americans to a four hit victory.

Frisch Answers Critics

Frisch himself had the best answer to his critics. "It's sheer second guessing to say I should have started Schumacher," he declared. "Sure I figured Hal was our ace but I had to take into account that he and Walker were the only two fresh pitchers available. All three of the others Dizzy Dean, Paul Derringer and Carl Hubbell pitched the day before. I couldn't ask Schumacher to pitch the whole game could I without getting into a fight with Bill Terry? So what? I gambled on Walker getting away to a good start and then figured on Schumacher to step in with a strong finish.

"I know it didn't work but the margin was pretty thin at that. If Walker hadn't grooved that high curve for Foxx in the first inning, if Medwick had played Hemsley's triple better in the second frame and if we had placed a hit or two in the clutches it would have been a different story. I would try the same strategy all over again under the same circumstances."

Record Crowd

Gomez and Harder now have gained a monopoly on All Star pitching honors. The Yankee southpaw starting all three games has been credited with victory in two. Harder the winning pitcher last year has allowed only two hits and no runs in eight innings.

The Americans rubbed in their latest triumph. Whereas the losers used 18 of their 20 players the winners made only one substitution, Harder for Gomez until the ninth. They made three substitutions for defensive purposes in the last frame.

Before the clans gather for the 1936 game which probably will be awarded to Boston under the plan of alternating between East and West the major leagues likely will give the All Star selections back to the fans. Since it's mainly a spectacle for the sports followers club owners now favor letting the fans help pick the teams by nation wide vote.

Funds for needy ball players administered by the two major leagues as well as a National Players association were enriched to the extent of about $75,000 by proceeds of the game here witnessed by one of the biggest crowds in baseball history. The gross receipts were $93,692.50 of which about $17,000 constituted taxes and $1,000 expenses.

Stars in All Star Tilt

By The Associated Press

JIMMIE FOXX—Hit first inning home run with Lou Gehrig on base and singled with the bases full to account for three of four American League runs.

LEFTY GOMEZ and MEL HARDER—Combined to hold Nationals to four hits.

BILL TERRY—Drove in only National run.

HAL SCHUMACHER—Yielded four hits in as many innings in relief role for Nationals and fanned five including Foxx, Bob Johnson, Simmons and Cronin.

FEATURE SOFTBALL TILT LISTED TONIGHT

Night Twin Bill May Settle Dispute in 2 Leagues, Fast Twilight Games Seen

First of three doubleheader night softball attractions for this week at Lincoln park promises to provide tonight the outstanding city league attraction of the four day program.

Leadership in two church leagues will be challenged tonight as the Presbyterian nine faces St. Mary and the Epworth Bishops meet Oakland. The first game between the No. 1 League aggregations is scheduled to get under way at 8:30 o'clock. The second game will get under way at 9:30.

St. Mary can gain a tie with the Presbies by handing the No. 1 League leaders a defeat tonight. The Epworth Bishops now tied for first place in the No. 2 church circuit can move into first place by setting back the Oakland nine. Both teams are playing each other for the first time this season.

Twilight games are listed for three diamonds. Calvary will provide feature entertainment against the Lee Street team at Presbyterian field. Trinity and Epworth No. 1 should stage a good scrap at Garfield park and First Reformed and the Epworth Seniors will tangle at Steam Shovel field.

Indian Discovers It's Bad To Get Irish Dander Up

O'Mahoney New Mat Champ Throws Little Wolf in Rough Match

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 9—It's bad business getting an Irishman's dander up.

Chief Little Wolf of Trinidad, Colo. tried it last night with Danno O'Mahoney of Ireland who claims the world heavyweight wrestling championship and found himself bouncing on the ring floor like a rubber ball.

O'Mahoney weighing 224 which was 21 pounds more than the Indian was willing to make a little party out of it until the Chief employed some tactics that might be termed foul. He gouged, pinched, tugged and scratched. He used his elbows and he bowled [illegible] curling [illegible] got the Irishman's dander up.

O'Mahoney who took his title from Jim Londos in Boston last week slipped out of one of the Chief's best grips, lifted him high into the air and slammed him to the floor no less than a dozen times much to the delight of the many Irish present. Then O'Mahoney pinned his foe [illegible] to the mat. The time was 25:23.

LOUISVILLE TROUNCED BY ST. PAUL HURLER

Monte Stratton Gives Saints 10 to 4 Victory Red Birds Idle

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 9—The Chicago White Sox may regret not having recalled Monte Stratton towering righthander pitcher from St. Paul but Marty McManus the Saints manager is more than pleased that the youngster is still with him.

Earlier in the season while Sad Sam Jones was out of action with an ailing arm the Sox entertained notions of bringing Stratton who showed great promise during the siege back to the American League from the American Association. Club officials decided that the six foot five inch hurler needed more seasoning and he was left with St. Paul.

Stratton has been the ace of the Saints staff and only consistent winner since McManus' team started to slip a few weeks back. Last night at Louisville he steadied an uncertain start and went on to beat the Colonels 10 to 4. He allowed eight hits, pitched scoreless ball after the fourth inning, walked only one, hit one man and struck out seven.

The Saint hurler also helped a [illegible] assault on Truett Sewell along with a pair of singles. Phil T[illegible] and Jack Warner with two doubles each headed the attack.

Minneapolis improved its hold on first place in another night game as Walter Tauscher shut out Indianapolis 4 to 0. Jim Turner held the [illegible] to six hits one less than Tauscher yielded but he [illegible] him down in the [illegible] when three [illegible] helped the victors to three runs.

The Kansas City-Toledo and Milwaukee-Columbus games were [illegible] as part of Sunday's double headers.

HOUSE OF DAVID NINE ROMPS TO 6-0 WIN OVER HOGAN'S RUNTS

Bearded Players Have Little Trouble Despite Good Hitting Fielding for Locals

Providing enough opposition to make the ball game interesting but not enough to make it anything but a romp for the bearded boys, the Hogan's Runts lost to the House of David team of Benton Harbor, Mich. 6 to 0 Monday afternoon at Lincoln park.

Approximately 400 persons witnessed the clever snappy brand of baseball exhibited by the visitors, received a few good laughs from the comedy work of the players and saw some good fielding on the part of the Marion team. Although the Hogan players were able to chalk up nine hits they could not get them at a time when they meant runs.

Out at Home

The Marionites got two hits in the first and sixth innings but missed on their lone chance to score in the sixth. Stover, Hogan first baseman singled and attempted to come home on Flash Ballauf's hefty double, the only extra base blow for the home forces.

Stover was out at home on a beautiful peg from centerfield by Bill Brennan, shortstop for the traveling team. Ballauf was a bright spot in the Hogan lineup getting two hits in three trips to the plate and making two pretty catches in center field. Stover led the locals in hitting with three singles.

Don McAninch played a good game at shortstop taking five chances without a misplay and scoring five putouts. Johnny Marshall had a good fielding job at third marred by two errors. Fetter, Longshore and Owens did well on the mound. Dewhirst, veteran hurler for the visitors took things easy throughout.

Hits Home Run

The whiskered gentlemen took things easy for much of the game content to score three runs in the third and one each in the [illegible] seventh and ninth innings. Bill Litfin husky left fielder for the House of David leaned heavily on an offering of Fetter in the third to send the ball over the left field fence scoring two runs ahead of him.

The celebrated pepper game of the visitors provided fans with considerable amusement in the eighth inning as did the antics of Eddie Deal and Dave Harrison, veteran catcher and third baseman with the visitors.

CINCINNATI, O., July 9—[illegible] powder puff mashie [illegible] six Ohio cities teed off [illegible] course at Maketewah today [illegible] queen of the Ohio Women's amateur championship [illegible] Burt Weil of Cincinnati.

Eighteen holes will be played daily until the 36 hole final Friday. [illegible] women's par [illegible] was [illegible] by Miss Pauline Begg of Cleveland, smiling 19 year old Western Reserve university student. Miss Begg yesterday won medalist honors by turning in that card.

The championship flight is preponderantly Cincinnati, 10 from the Queen City having made the grade. Cleveland is represented by two and Toledo, Dayton, Columbus and Steubenville by one each. Miss Begg's score was far ahead of that carded by most of her sisters. Mrs. Weil who defeated her in last year's semi-finals at Toledo could do no better than an 86. Mrs. Charles P. Harbaugh of Cleveland and Mrs. Ralph Goodman of Cincinnati turned in second low cards [illegible] 87.

Starting no better than the rest by making the turn in 42, Miss Begg however electrified her gallery by holing the par five tenth for an eagle three. The other eight holes she played in one over men's par for a nine hole total of 38.

DRUGS AND SUNDRIES

GALL LIVER AND BILE AILMENTS

Are you afflicted with GALL, LIVER and BILE trouble? If you are a sufferer don't pass these ailments over lightly. FATAL DISEASES often originate from these causes of GALL, LIVER AND BILE trouble. Even surgical operations on the GALL BLADDER does not cure the HEPATIC DEFICIENCY. Gall trouble may lead to Gall Stones which often lead to a very serious operation. We believe the early symptoms should be carefully watched. We also believe that early attention may keep back a surgical operation. We are sure of the great help given to sufferers by using Z. Z. Z. Gall Tablets. All users of these tablets acclaim re-invigorated health. These tablets are on sale at Lower's Pharmacy.
